The Fiscal Year that ended June 30, 2009 proved to be a challenging year for non-profits in California, and 2-1-1 Orange County was no exception. As the recession loomed in our midst, private and public sector funders alike were forced to re-evaluate their priorities because of reduced funding capacity. The impact was felt two-fold by 2-1-1 Orange County; we experienced a significant decline in funding, while at the same time we experienced a 60% increase in demand for our services.

Like many other organizations, 2-1-1 Orange County implemented cost reduction measures, including reduced staffing levels through attrition, but still managed to maintain a 24-hour service to handle the increased demand for our services and provided the highest level of service to those less fortunate.

The economic challenges also provided opportunities: the chance to strengthen existing partnerships and develop new ones to help support our operating needs. Long-time supporters such as the Children and Families Commission, the County of Orange, and the Orange County United Way all strengthened their strategic partnering and financial support of our agency. We developed new partnerships, which includes support from the Weingart Foundation, which offered funding to those agencies providing safety net services. In addition, Bank of America, with assistance from the Orange County United Way, raised dollars to assist us after the Complex Freeway Fires which also resulted in matching funds from the Children and Families Commission. An anonymous donor offered a challenge grant for $10,000 in matching funds; we succeeded in that challenge.

Because of the long-term implications of the economic recession, social service agencies such as ours must look for new ways to collaborate, reduce costs and run more efficiently. We are excited about taking collaboration and partnering to a new level with the Orange County United Way. In October 2009, 2-1-1 Orange County will move its operations into their facilities.

Our outlook for the next several years remains optimistic but realistic; the economic recovery will be slow, and unemployment levels will continue to be higher than average for some period of time. We expect our call volumes to continue to remain at higher levels than previous years, and the breadth of our referrals to continue to expand. Our goal is to diversify funding sources through a social enterprise model and to use new funding to continue to expand our reach and ability to serve the community of Orange County.

On behalf of the Board of Directors, I thank the 2-1-1 Orange County staff for their tremendous support and service to the community through these difficult and troubling times.

Scott Reitan
President
Every day, someone in need calls 2-1-1 every 51 seconds.

Finding help can be confusing and intimidating, but 2-1-1 makes it easy. Families no longer need to wade through the maze of nonprofit and government agencies in order to find the services they need. They simply dial three digits, 2-1-1.

Our 2-1-1 information and referral specialists are trained to identify the needs of the individual calling – 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, linking residents in need to critical services and support information on housing, job placement, food, and a broad range of health and human services. We maintain a comprehensive database with over 4,500 social service programs identified by region and specialty, and we continue to manage this inventory.

We also serve as an important source of information on countywide need trends to local service providers and foundations who are serving the community, and offer immediate, countywide emergency communication whenever the county faces a disaster.

This report will give you an overview of our programs, our achievements, and our vision for the future.

I believe an investment in 2-1-1 is an investment in the entire Orange County social service network. By helping Orange County residents navigate the system of community resources, we connect people to the help they need, right when they need it. The partners and funders listed in this report are a critical component of that investment, and we are grateful for their support.

Lastly, please allow me to acknowledge the hard work and dedication of the members of the Board of Directors who have devoted countless volunteer hours from their busy schedules to the success of 2-1-1 in Orange County. With the Board’s continued support and the quality of service delivery from my dedicated staff, we plan to continue listening, and helping people in need – every day – for years to come.

Judy Bowden
Executive Director
Mission and Vision

Our mission is to optimize the effectiveness of Orange County’s community resources by providing a comprehensive information and referral system that links all of Orange County to community services and support.

2-1-1 Orange County is the premier source for connecting people to community services.

Mission and Vision

Since 2-1-1 launched in 2005 it has been a valuable asset to all of Orange County including being an important resource during my time in the state legislature. The quality of services 2-1-1 provides is a testament to the great people working tirelessly for the organization.

Assemblyman Todd Spitzer

2-1-1 Orange County provides information and referrals to support the following residential needs:

- Food
- Shelter/housing resources
- Prenatal care
- Workforce development
- Government assistance programs
- Equipment resources for older adults
- Access to health insurance programs, especially for the uninsured or under-insured
- Urgent care, medical, dental, and vision services
- Prevention and safety services
- Substance abuse assessment and treatment programs
- Counseling services
- Child development assessment services
- Early detection and treatment programs
- Disaster response during natural and manmade emergencies
- Support group connection
- Parks, recreation, and other municipal departments

With the economy like it is, some of our constituents have fallen on hard times and need help. 2-1-1 is one of the best and most comprehensive resources we’ve found.

Assemblyman Chuck DeVore
Orange County residents have faced immense challenges in the past year. Rising costs of healthcare, financial and job insecurity, and a chronic lack of affordable housing have put many of our vulnerable individuals and families at risk. 2-1-1 Orange County makes a significant difference for the residents of our community as they contend with these issues. 2-1-1 helps residents locate and identify supportive services, and alleviate the increasing burden placed on service providers to meet this growing need by providing targeted information.

Last year (FY 08-09) 2-1-1 Orange County answered over 85,000 calls from Orange County residents with the majority of the calls regarding basic needs services. This is a 31% increase from the same time last year. As we assess these calls, serious changes in the needs of the County emerge:

- Emergency shelter requests have increased by 39%
- Rental assistance requests have increased 31%
- Food assistance requests have increased 67%
- Utility assistance requests have increased 58%
- Requests for mental health counseling have increased 50%
- Requests for legal assistance have increased 56%

In early 2009, 2-1-1 Orange County joined its regional affiliates across the state along with the California Association of Food Banks (CAFB) to provide cross-promotion of Food Stamp awareness to all callers who indicate potential eligibility for assistance.

With this partnership, Food Stamp awareness increased dramatically. Between July and September of 2008, 2-1-1 Orange County received 342 calls regarding food stamp assistance. In the following three months (October to December, 2008) this number surged by 223% to 1,103 calls. At the end of the Federal fiscal year (Oct 2008- Sept 2009) we informed 30,697 callers about the Food Stamp program known as SNAP.
Over the past year, 2-1-1 Orange County has achieved many outcomes across its key programs and services.

The 2-1-1 Call Center
Connecting People to Help

2-1-1 Orange County maintains the county’s most comprehensive database of available services with information on more than 1,700 agencies that represent more than 4,500 specialized services. This is Orange County’s main clearinghouse for information on community service providers. Information & Referral Specialists in the 2-1-1 Call Center utilize this database to match caller needs to services.

- We surpassed our 2008-2009 goal of 76,000 calls by answering 85,865 calls for assistance. This represents a 33% increase from the previous fiscal year (2007-2008).
- We offered 236,727 referrals to local services and programs.
- Our call center average abandonment rate (the rate of lost or incomplete calls) is under 5%, while the 2-1-1 industry standard across the nation is 10%.
- We fielded 505 calls for disaster services (Freeway Complex Fires in November and H1N1 flu in April and May).
- We reached 32,535 Orange County residents at community outreach events.
- The 2-1-1 volunteer program has recruited and trained 13 ongoing volunteers. Volunteers contributed 4,223 hours to the 2-1-1 Call Center, primarily in call handling and database updates, equaling a donation of $57,000.

Unlike the 4-1-1 Call Center, 2-1-1 Orange County does more than simply provide phone numbers to callers seeking help. Our Information and Referral Specialists are trained to identify specific needs of each caller. For example, a person calling for rental assistance may also need food assistance. If they have any infants in the household, our specialists can suggest where they can get diapers or baby formula to help with their budget needs. This specialized service has become increasingly important, as a new wave of previously middle-class callers are navigating the social services of the region for the first time. Each caller receives an average of three targeted referrals to support services.
2-1-1 Orange County partners with the County of Orange Emergency Operations Center to provide essential information to county residents in the event of a local or state emergency. 2-1-1 Orange County is committed to disaster planning, response, and recovery. Our staff participates in ongoing cooperative disaster response planning in the community and is prepared to assist residents with information such as road and school closures, emergency shelters, and other disaster-related resources. 2-1-1 Orange County also partners with other 2-1-1s across the state and country to assist with information and referral services wherever needed.

- 2-1-1 Orange County has been identified by the County of Orange Operational Area Extreme Heat Weather Plan as a source of information during declared heat emergencies.
- 2-1-1 Orange County has also been written into the State of California Emergency Plan.
- During this past year, 2-1-1 Orange County responded to the Freeway Complex Fires, answering 458 fire-related calls over a three-day period. 2-1-1 Orange County also responded to the H1N1 flu outbreak, utilizing updated information received from the Orange County Health Care Agency.
- 2-1-1 Orange County co-chaired COAD, a network of community and faith-based organizations and government partners that provide help. Our goal is to become an efficient, well-coordinated group that activates smoothly in a disaster helping with health and human service needs.
- In November 2008, 2-1-1 Orange County participated in the Golden Guardian Statewide Exercise, the nation’s largest state-sponsored emergency preparedness exercise endeavor, the South County Disaster Preparedness Expo, and the Great Shake-Out.

2. Become familiar with the role of 2-1-1 during disasters
3. Understand how to complete the Disaster Intake Sheet and other necessary paperwork

Freeway Complex Fires

458 calls fielded in a three-day period by staff and volunteers.

Centralized Intake System

2-1-1 Orange County is currently working with the County and members of the Continuum of Care to develop a Centralized Intake System for supporting individuals and families seeking housing resources. While the County currently utilizes a Homeless Management Information System as mandated by the federal government to track regional use of services, the region does not have a centralized intake system. Because of 2-1-1’s expertise with information and referrals, and its ability to interface with the region’s homeless management information system, we are in a unique position to address this regional infrastructure need.

Dialogue with 2-1-1

Every February 11th in conjunction with the 2-1-1 National Awareness Day, 2-1-1 Orange County will host a symposium to bring service providers, elected officials, city staff, and funders together. Discussions invite collaboration on best practices, evolving trends and solicit input from attendees on how to improve the delivery system of health and human service needs.

Community Partner Forums and Resource Sharing

2-1-1 Orange County has begun convening quarterly service provider forums to foster collaboration among providers and to share cutting edge information to those at the front line serving families in crisis. Entitled “2-1-1 to Z” this series connects service providers to resources and keeps 2-1-1 Orange County current with the region’s needs and trends of service.
